

IT LOOKS OMINOUS.

The Situation in Egypt the Subject of Grave Concern.

THE FRENCH PUT IN AN OAR, ALSO.

While the Sultan Expresses His Approval of the Khedive's Assumption of Independence—The British Cabinet Seems Much Stirred Up Over the Situation—Lord Cromer is Severe.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—The Egyptian situation is assuming a gravity which for the time overwhelms in the public mind all other issues, including the Irish home rule bill.

Lord Rosebery has received telegraphic advices from Lord Cromer to the effect that the khedive had intimated his intention to refer to the Turkish sultan and to the treaty powers the action of England in causing the dismissal of the Fakhari cabinet. Other advices from Cairo state that the natives are in a more excited condition than at any time before since the outbreak under the leadership of Arabi Pasha. While a considerable party of the moderate and intelligent natives support the British position, the multitude take sides with the khedive and against what they call "infidel dictation."

Mr. Gladstone caused a cabinet council to be called to consider the Egyptian crisis. The marquis of Ripon, secretary for the colonies, left a bed of sickness to be present at the cabinet council. The council sat for two hours. While the cabinet was in session a stream of telegrams continued to pour into the foreign office from Cairo. These were immediately transmitted to the cabinet. When the cabinet adjourned it was to reassemble at 4 o'clock p. m.

The prolonged session of the cabinet is understood to be due to a difference of opinion as to the necessity of reinforcing the British army of occupation in Egypt, both with a view to protecting British interests at Cairo, and to protecting the frontier against the dervishes, who have recently become very menacing.

A note reached Lord Rosebery on Saturday from the French foreign office in relation to Egyptian affairs. The note stated that the French government, while refraining from objecting to Riaz Pasha as premier, would maintain the right of the khedive to choose his ministers.

The British force in Egypt numbered at the beginning of this year 3,400 men, Major General Forester Walker in command. The whole Egyptian army, however, is indirectly under British control, about sixty English officers holding commands among the 19,000 native troops, and Gen. F. W. Kitchen having control as far as the army organization. The native troops have reached a high degree of efficiency under their English drill masters.

The Sultan Approves it.

PARIS, Jan. 23.—A dispatch from Cairo states that the sultan has telegraphed to the khedive his congratulations on the attitude which the khedive has assumed in respect to the formation of a cabinet independently of English interference. The sultan will send the khedive a present of six horses.

War would not Last Long.

CAIRO, Jan. 23.—A correspondent had an interview with Lord Cromer, the British representative in Egypt. In reply to questions about the situation, Lord Cromer said: "There is no cause to apprehend a disturbance, but you are at liberty to say that if a disturbance should occur I guarantee it would be of short duration."

Reinforcements for Egypt.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—The reinforcements to be sent to Egypt are not likely to exceed one thousand troops and two warships for Alexandria and Port Said and one warship for Suez.

Mr. Chanler's Pleasant Tour.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—A letter has been received from William Astor Chanler, dated at Hameye, on the river Tana, November 23, 1892. This was the starting point of the expedition on its task of exploration. The route pursued from the coast, the letter stated, had been along the banks of the Tana, which Mr. Chanler describes as a beautiful stream. The journey had been uneventful and without fatigue. Mr. Chanler's health was good. He proposed, in company with Lieutenant Hohnel, his companion on the expedition, to go in search of a supposed lake in the northwest. They would be absent for two months on the search, and would leave a servant and ninety men to protect the caravan during their absence.

Egan's Release from Jail.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—James Francis Egan, the alleged dynamite conspirator, who was released from penal servitude at Portland prison, on Saturday, telegraphed to-day to Timothy Healy, M. P., for South Louth: "John pulled me through Portland gate on Saturday. I will see you in Dublin before the end of the week."

Healy telegraphed back: "Receive my hearty congratulations. Welcome to freedom."

The John alluded to is John Barry, M. P., from South Wexford, who went to Portland and met Egan at the prison, accompanying him home to Birmingham. Judging from recent accounts, Egan must have received a hearty welcome at his home, where his wife has been waiting many months for his release.

Callahan is Free.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—The report that Callahan had been released from Portland prison some time ago is confirmed to-day. It has been learned that he sailed for the United States on Saturday last on the Hamburg-American steamship Faust Bismarck.

The Cholera Grows Worse.

BERLIN, Jan. 23.—The cholera in the Neutleben lunatic asylum at Halle grows worse in type and more destructive. A number of those stricken with the disease have died within a few hours afterwards. The total number of cases since the beginning of the outbreak is 84, of which 38 have already proved fatal.

No Revolution in Hayti.

PARIS, Jan. 23.—The Haytian legation here has issued a denial of the cable dispatches from New York stating that there was a revolution in Hayti. The officials at the legation declare that tranquility prevails everywhere in Hayti.

PHILLIPS BROOKS DEAD.

The Distinguished Divine Passes Away from Heart Failure.

Boston, Jan. 23.—Bishop Phillips Brooks died at 6:30 o'clock this morning of pneumonia.

The death was entirely unexpected. He was ill Thursday, but nothing serious showed itself until last evening. Dr. Beach, his physician, discovered late last evening diphtheritic symptoms, and considered a consultation advisable, and called in Dr. R. N. Fitz. At this time nothing serious was anticipated. Dr. Beach was with the bishop the entire night. About half past six the patient was seized with a coughing spasm, which lasted for a few moments and his heart ceased to beat.

Dr. Beach said this morning that death was caused by heart failure and not by diphtheria.

Bishop Brooks preached his last sermon at the Church of the Good Shepherd, on Cortez street, last Tuesday evening. The scene at the bishop's house this morning was one of grief and desolation. No crops had at that time been placed on the door, but anxious friends, among whom the news had been spread with great rapidity, were making inquiries on the street, and in the immediate neighborhood, of everyone whom they saw.

Within the house a few of the bishop's most intimate friends, who seemed hardly to realize the terrible loss, were gathered in groups in the different rooms. The spirit that pervaded the assemblage was one of complete and overwhelming sorrow. They could not comprehend the fact that Bishop Brooks was dead, and again and again the question was asked: "Is the bishop really dead?" That their beloved pastor and friend had left them forever seemed to them too awful, and they were unable to grasp the significance of his death.

Bishop Brooks said very little during his illness. He apparently had no idea his end was near and he did not leave any last message. On account of the contagious character of his disease it is not probable that the funeral will be private.

Phillips Brooks was born in Boston, December 13, 1835. His degree of B. A. he received in Harvard University in 1855, and subsequently that of D. D. He studied at the Episcopal Theological Seminary at Alexandria, Va., and in 1859 was ordained. The same year he got his first charge, becoming rector of the Church of the Advent in Philadelphia, where he remained for three years. He was then transferred to the Church of the Holy Trinity.

From 1870 until last year he was rector of Trinity church, Boston, a charge that allowed of his fame as a pulpit orator becoming world wide. He was as well known and appreciated in England as here, and such churchmen as Canon Farrar and the late Dean Stanley were among his friends. He had preached for the former in Westminster Abbey, and both of these English divines have occupied his pulpit in Boston. Early last year he became bishop of Massachusetts, succeeding the late Benjamin Henry Paddock. Previously, in 1880, he was offered the assistant bishopric of Pennsylvania, but declined.

An active philanthropist, as well as preacher, Bishop Brooks was also an author, and several volumes, mostly sermons, have come from his pen. His first work was "Lectures on Preaching," published in 1877; then came his "Sermons," (1878 and 1881); "The Influence of Jesus"; Bohlen Lectures, delivered in Philadelphia in 1879, and "Baptism and Confirmation," (1880).

Bishop Brooks had a commanding presence, being a large man with a deep, musical voice, and his words fell from him with such rapidity of utterance as to be a perfect cataract of eloquence.

NEW IDEA IN DENTISTRY.

Five Teeth Pulled While the Subject is in a Hypnotized State.

Cincinnati Tribune.

Yesterday afternoon a curious experiment in hypnotism was made at Oxford, O. The subject was Miss Mary Bulkley, an attendant in the Oxford Retreat. The hypnotizing was done by Mr. Harvey Cook, a student of the Ohio Medical College, in this city, and a son of Dr. J. F. Cook, the principal of the Retreat. There was also a dentist, Dr. O. A. Teeks.

The work done was the pulling of five teeth. No ether nor chloroform was used, and yet the patient was not conscious of the slightest pain.

The first tooth was a difficult one to get out. It was necessary to cut around the gum. But after it was drawn and the patient brought out of her trance she was not aware that the tooth had been touched.

She was again hypnotized and the second tooth was drawn. This also required cutting. But on being aroused the second time, the result was the same as before.

She was hypnotized once more and the other three teeth extracted. Still there was no pain.

Previously Dr. Teeks had not believed that such a thing was possible; but he is now far less skeptical.

Indians Starving in Alaska.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23.—John C. Green, mine owner and prospector at Gulovine Bay, Alaska, has returned from there. He says the Indians to the number of 500 along the Fish river are in a starving condition. Game is scarce, and all they have to live on is fish, which they dry in summer. Even this meagre supply is stolen from them by the Malamute Indians, a powerful tribe who come down annually from Port Clarence and take from the Inuits the fish they have dried.

Mrs. Amanda Paisley

For many years an esteemed communicant of Trinity Episcopal church, Newburgh, N. Y., always says "Thank You" to Hood's Sarsaparilla. RESCUED JUST IN TIME.

A Vessel Wrecked at Sea and the Crew Starved for Five Days.

New York, Jan. 23.—Captain Tent, of the schooner Minneola, of Windsor, N. S., his wife and five sailors were rescued at sea on January 5, and brought to this port to-day by the ship Carlton, bound from San Francisco. When the Carlton sighted the Minneola, she was full of water, the people aboard had been three days without provisions and were on the verge of succumbing to their fate. The captain's wife was dressed in her husband's clothes. Her own had been washed away.

For three days and nights, she said, she had been on the top of the deck house, clinging for life, without anything to eat or drink. She had to keep watch while the crew labored at the pumps to keep the schooner from sinking. Once she fell asleep while on watch and dreamed of the ship wreck. She dreamed that she saw a big ship coming straight to them.

When day broke she awoke. She saw the Carlton bearing down on their almost sinking vessel.

Mrs. Tent was more dead than alive when taken on board the Carlton. All she saved was her Bible.

The Minneola was abandoned.

Wrecked Seamen Brought Home.

SAN DIEGO, CAL., Jan. 23.—The steamer San Jose arrived this morning from Panama, bringing thirty-eight men of the crew of the American bark Sea Breeze, which was burned in the Gulf of California. The Sea Breeze left San Francisco December 19, for the Gulf of California, to secure wood before going on a whaling expedition to the Arctic. At Madre Island she secured the wood, but on January 10 fire broke out and the bark burned to the water's edge. Forty-three men on her escaped in small boats to the island, and were sent to San Blas by the governor. Five of the wrecked crew remained there and others came north. The Sea Breeze was commanded by Captain Worth and owned by James McKenna, of San Francisco.

Express Companies Combine.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 23.—It transpired to-day that an alliance that took effect on the first of the year has been entered into between the United States Express Company and American Express Company. Hitherto the American Express had a contract with the Adams Express, and has been in the nature of a feeder to the Adams.

The Dry Goods Market.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—The demand for dry goods was fair as disclosed in the mail and telegraph orders and the number of buyers astir in the market, indicating doubtless an improved trade for the week. There were no prominent developments except that leading makes of bleached shirtings were more active.

SIKN TORTURES

Whether itching, burning, bleeding, scaly, crusty, pimply, or blotchy, whether of the skin, scalp, or blood, whether simple, scrofulous, hereditary, ulcerative or contagious, are now speedily, permanently and economically cured by the Cuticura Remedies when the best physicians and all other remedies fail. The most miraculous cures daily effected by them prove this. No statement is made regarding them not warranted by the strongest evidence.
